Meet Brian Mohr

Brians passion for building started early in life. His first project was an elaborate four-story tree house crafted with materials confiscated from his father's job sites. Unfortunately his eye for architectural detail hadn't evolved yet and the luxurious golf course the high-rise overlooked, politely ask him to deconstruct. Brian wasn't dissuaded, and today he is highly sought after by affluent clients to assist in designing and bringing to life their visions of luxury living.

The father of two, Brian celebrated his ten year anniversary with his wife Erica, who shares his love of architecture and assists in creating innovative, trend setting designs. As a family, they spend time sailing in the summers and hit the ski slopes as soon as the snow falls.

A ski racer as a teenager, Brian was chosen as "The Ski Instructor Of The Year" out of of 180 coaches on the Park City Utah Ski Team and he is currently the Vice President of the Mount Holiday Ski Racing Team. Year after year, his building team has been rewarded with multiple Parade of Home awards from the Home Builders Association. Brian's tenacious determination to excel shines through in both his personal and professional relationships. He is a man that believes in "quality rather than quantity."
