Finally, travel to the city's Dusit district to visit Wat Benchamabophit, a beautifully ornate monastery built of Italian Carrara marble. Start your tour with 14th Century Wat Phra Sing (Temple of the Lion Lord), which houses a sacred 1,500-year-old Buddha image and served as the principal religious center of the Lanna Kingdom. The complex is composed of several buildings of varying architectural and artistic merit. Next visit another impressive temple, Wat Chedi Luang, which towers 196 feet (60 meters) high and is the revered home of the Emerald Buddha which was once enshrined. Continue to Doi Suthep, situated on Doi Pui mountain overlooking the city of Chiang Mai. Their handlers are trusted friends that teach them skills from pulling logs to painting. Watch the elephants taking their morning bath and demonstrating some of their skills. These well-trained, docile creatures will even give you a lift. You will learn how to properly ascend the elephant and together you will lumber along a trail in the dense, leafy forest and along the Mae Ping River.
